WOULD YOU RATHER:

"I answer therefore I am, and I am, in some ways, my answer"

It's the evening, and you've had an argument with your lover. Would you rather:

☐ go to bed and resolve it in the morning

☐ go late into the night until everyone's happy again

Gun to your head, would you rather:

☐ all day every day be forced to constantly have the horizontal golden light of a sunset in your eyes

☐ never be able to experience the golden light of a sunset ever again

It's Thursday afternoon. There are clouds overhead and you're wearing a scratchy jumper. Would you rather:

☐ feel orange

☐ be green

Someone has kindly made you a gift of yet another house plant. You're grateful, but know already that due to your capacity/character it will not be properly cared for. Would you rather:

☐ allow it to dwindle and desiccate in some dark corner of your house, until it can be disposed of

☐ replant it somewhere it stands a chance of really flourishing, and bringing joy to others

You're 17 and at a hostel with a school trip. It's the evening and the teachers are out to supper. Would you rather:

☐ play spin the bottle with the cool kids

☐ stay in your room and read again

You've just spent 5 days at a festival with some dear friends. It was amazing and intense and you're completely exhausted. You're travelling back, would you rather:

☐ headphones on, leaning against the window, nonverbal mode activated, don't touch me

☐ soft chats and reminiscing about the last days whilst sitting on floor of train in cuddle puddle

Would you rather:

☐ be in a place that you are from, and feel lonely

☐ be in a place that you aren't from, and feel lonely

There's a stone in your shoe. You are in no particular hurry to be anywhere but it is slightly painful to walk upon. Would you rather:

☐ stop, remove your shoe in the street like a heron and get rid of the stone

☐ keep walking with a new purpose of trying to find a way to make the stone fit comfortably

You fancy yourself somewhat of an artiste yourself. Would you rather:

☐ have a constant and abundant spring of ideas but unfortunately none of them quite hit the mark

☐ have no original ideas but have excellent taste in borrowing what is good in the ideas of others

In an underpass a man who looks unerringly like your father is walking towards you and your friends, and you will shortly pass one another.
Would you rather:

☐ stop and talk to him, taking the opportunity to air some things out

☐ pass him without breaking stride, head held high knowing you have overcome the damage he did

It's 11am and you are having the worst day in your body possible. Would you rather:

☐ succumb to bedrot, eat your flatmates' food, maybe short outing for a vape if you can muster

☐ take the bull by the horns and force yourself into exercise, shower, vegetables, calling friend

Eating is a battle. Unceasing appetite then Nausea. Would you rather:

☐ eat books instead. Let your brain grow large

☐ yield again, succumb

You've spilled food on your shirt, again. This time you're at supper with your new lover's parents. Would you rather:

☐ thank them for their time, and make a prompt exit apologizing for wasting their family's time

☐ subtly flick food onto everyone else's shirt with your fork when they aren't looking

You're traipsing through a city with all of your wordly posssesions, most of which are book-containing cloth tote bags. It starts to pour rain. Would you rather:

☐ immediately take shelter. you miss your train and cause a XC logistical nightmare (books are dry)

☐ you are grateful for the rain as it is fate. all materialism weighs on the soul (abandon the books)

CANDIDATE INSTRUCTIONS

1. Carefully read and understand the instructions provided.

2. Read each question carefully. Using a pen or pencil, fill in or tick ONE square. The selected square must correspond to your selected answer.

3. Upon completion, please photograph, scan or otherwise return to: byVC2RL@gmail.com.

VC2RL-25 RS+NA

@VC2RL

@Vc2rl

@Vc2rl
@Vc2rl
@Vc2rl
@Vc2rl